Trip of a Lifetime

Journalist Karen Catchpole isn't letting a bad economy end her fantasy of exploring the Americas: She and her photographer husband are four years into and about halfway through an epic road trip from Alaska to Nevada (left) and on to southernmost Chile. Currently in southern Mexico, the couple freelance and scrimp. "As long as we can make enough gas money, we'll keep going!" Catchpole says. Their site, trans-americas.com, is featured on lonelyplanet.com.
